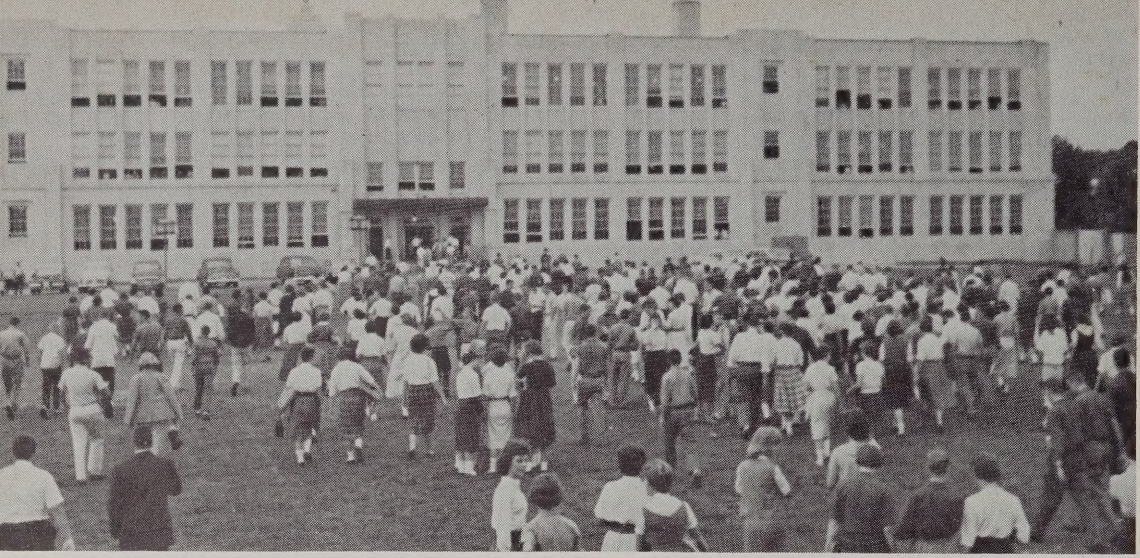
Down the Field - Goal to Go

The field! Without its parts it is barren and has little meaning, for it is just a plot of ground surrounded by empty grandstands and bleachers. However, when a game takes place, the field becomes alive with action and excitement which is supplied by the players, striving at all times to score; the spectators, cheering their favorite team to victory; and the coaches and waterboys. Thomas Jefferson can be compared with a football field, for without its players, the students, the school is of little use and has little significance. Without its coaches, the faculty, teaching the players the important plays, the students can acquire no knowledge. However, when the faculty, the students, the clubs, and the other parts of Thomas Jefferson's game are combined to form one organized machine, the school is meaningful and comes to life with activity and action. Our field, Thomas Jefferson, needs every student, teacher, and counselor in order to score the touchdown of success. If everyone strives to do his part, crossing this goal line of success will be no problem. So let's strive to play the game enthusiastically—it will make our field live.



As school begins in the morning at 8:45, students prepare to enter Thomas Jefferson after a school spirited cheer rally. As the day progresses, the students will participate in many varied activities. Some will attend club meetings, some will practice sports, some will drill and march, and all will work in their respective classes.

As a Thomas Jefferson game begins, the fans are eager and excited, the players are alert and ready, and the officials are prepared for action. In seconds the gun will sound; then comes the kickoff. During the game the main objective of the team will be to cross the goal line. In doing this the team will strive to exercise teamwork, ability, and fair play—the factors which lead to winning the game.

"Run 66 and tell them to open that hole off tackle!" These familiar words spoken by the coach when he sends in a substitute during the game. Then, the roar of the crowd when the play is effective and the team gains long yardage. Such incidents give the coaches a feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction. To make the plays effective takes long hours of teaching by the coaches. In a like manner, the faculty of Thomas Jefferson receives satisfaction from good results produced by its pupils. To produce these good results, the faculty, just as the coaches, must patiently work long hours with its pupils. The coaches should be commended for the time and assistance they give to the players. To keep the game up to standard, referees and other officials must be on duty. The services of these men are essential and invaluable, for without them the game would be disorderly and confused. The officials, the Superintendent of Richmond Public Schools, and the administration of Thomas Jefferson High School see that the game here is played according to the rules. Truly, the goal could not be reached without the assistance of these coaches and officials.

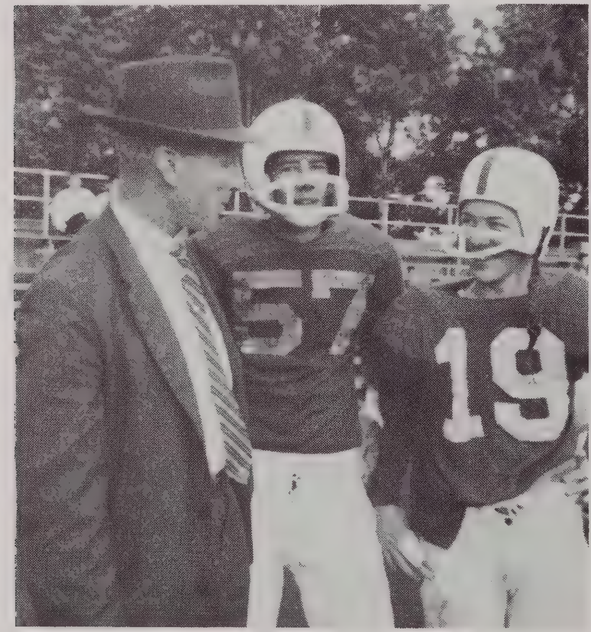
WILLIAM W. BROCK, JR. • PRINCIPAL

School Functions Endorsed by Our Principal

Our principal, Mr. Brock, discusses the next game with Johnny Tribble and Roy Grizzard.



Our principal, Mr. William W. Brock, having completed two years at Thomas Jefferson has become a very important part of our school life. As principal he has administrative responsibility over students and faculty. Because he has a genuine interest in the students, Mr. Brock has supported school activities such as athletic events, student productions, and class dances. Also he has been furthering his education by working for his Ph.D. in philosophy. Before coming to Thomas Jefferson Mr. Brock spent eleven years at John Marshall, where he was a mathematics and commercial subjects teacher and later assistant principal. In addition to this he served as principal of Albert H. Hill School for seven years. Aside from his duties as principal, Mr. Brock finds time to enjoy classical and semi-classical music.

HENRY I. WILLETT
Superintendent, Richmond Public Schools

Everyone connected with the Richmond City Public School System is proud to have an internationally known superintendent, Dr. H. I. Willett. Prior to coming to Richmond, Mr. Willett served as superintendent of Norfolk County Schools. In his position he faces many problems. This year, with the erection of two new high schools, came the problem of whether the junior classes at both Thomas Jefferson and John Marshall should remain together next year or should graduate from the school in their district. Mr. Willett had met with these juniors to explain the situation. Then, following a democratic pattern, he allowed the juniors to express their opinion on the matter by voting. Mr. Willett continues to do an outstanding job in keeping the curricula, the practices, and the condition of the city schools up to date, thereby providing Richmond children a worthwhile education.

The college preparatory course specifies algebra, plane geometry and a foreign language. While the business course requires four units in commercial subjects, the vocational course requires four units from distributive education, mechanical drawing, jewelry, ceramics, and consumer problems. The remainder of the units for all diplomas are chosen at the student's discretion.

The senior curriculum also includes European history and advanced chemistry. Students who have studied French or Spanish since the elementary grades may continue their study, while those who are interested in English may take journalism. The value of these courses lies in the student's receiving advanced placement in college.

Noteworthy Changes Effected in T. J. Curriculum

In 1959-60 two significant changes were made. One was the initiation of the full year plan which eliminates the changing of subjects, classes and schedules in February. Although freshmen and sophomores followed this exact plan, beginning courses at midterm were offered only for upperclassmen. In freshman and sophomore English classes, grammar and literature were interwoven rather than taught in separate terms. The introduction of two-hour exams—two a day for a three-day period—prevented a student's having more than two exams on one day. The students have expressed their approval of these changes.

Various Organizations Sponsored by Enthusiastic Teachers

In addition to their regular classes, teachers are engaged in many extra-curricular activities. Among these are sponsoring athletic teams, school publications, student organizations, and productions. The productions include Junior Stunt Night, the Senior Class Play, and the Operetta. As a club sponsor, a teacher supervises the projects undertaken by the club. Faculty members also work with the Parent-Teacher Association and attend faculty meetings where they express their views on school policy. These activities give the teachers a way to express their interest in the students and in teaching.

"We're really clicking with those end runs!" the quarterback states enthusiastically when the team has formed the huddle. The team's success depends upon its co-operation and willingness to work, plus endless hours of practice which must be given to polish away any flaws in the plays. The product of such teamwork is rewarding, for it makes the team successful in the game. A lineman throwing a key block, a quarterback connecting with a pass to an end, and the whole team working to block for a runner are true examples of teamwork. Teamwork is necessary, too, for the lowly, but important, waterboys who refresh the team during a time out. Teamwork is also essential for the benchwarmers who seldom enter the game, except as substitutes when the first team is crippled by the loss of a player. The second string team which takes over when the first string needs a rest must work hard together with the outstanding players of the team—the first string—to insure success. These various teams can be compared with the four classes at Thomas Jefferson. The end zone is in sight when the freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors work together to reach their goal . . . Success.

We're finally at the top! Graduation looms ahead after our four-year trek through Thomas Jefferson. These have been eventful days: some happy, some with set-backs, all filled with work and fun. Heading us in our final year have been Pete Gordon, June Johnston, Nancy Gill, and John Flournoy. Calling our plays in the Senate were Bradley Nott, Doug Reed, Spot deWitt, Cecil Long, and Billy Welsh. The S. P. Officers were members of our class this year also: Dennis Ownby, president, with Jane Trevillian, Fran Taliaferro, Vickie Ellis, and Bates Chappel giving him support. Many of us had places on the varsity squads as well. All of the cheerleaders kept the spirit high with Kay Rogers leading us on. At the first Tee Jay homecoming, Nancy Pace was crowned "Miss Jeff." As King and Queen of our Senior-Junior, we chose Billy Welsh and Kay Hardy. To aid finances we presented "Meet Me in St. Louis," a big success. The year was climaxed by our class picnic at Swift Creek . . . and then, graduation.

With the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" we realize that our days at Tee Jay are almost over. The time which once seemed so far away is here. Going on to college or into the business world we feel prepared to face life as it comes. We truly begin to realize a fact that has been with us since our entering of high school—what a great opportunity we have in attending Thomas Jefferson! We've been fortunate in being part of a school with such an excellent Student Participation Association, a fine faculty-student relationship, a top course of study, and many diversified activities. With all of this in mind the goal is in sight; the final score pre-eminent.

One of the projects undertaken by members of the Senior Homemaking class is that of refinishing furniture. Here Sue Tyler and Ginger Loving are hard at work on a coffee table.

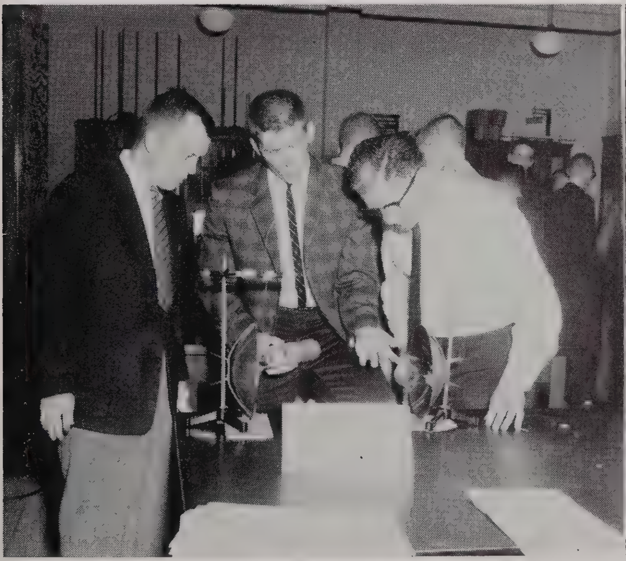
"We're behind you, cheering for you," yell Head Cheerleader Kay Rogers and L'il Jeff. In this West End rivalry the Vikings are cheered to victory, as they topple Freeman, 14-6.

Each phase of school life has helped prepare us for our exploration of the world. Through our student participation we have learned the meaning of responsibility—following as well as leading. Our courses have given us the needed knowledge to live in an intelligent, progressive time. Being members of teams and organizations has shown us the importance of duty, co-operation, and fellowship. These segments of our school life, together with the closing events, class day, the Baccalaureate Service, and, of course, graduation, have formed a thrilling and meaningful chapter in our lives. Yes, we may be leaving you, Tee Jay, but never will we put away entirely our memories of you.

Mr. Joe Holmes, research chemist for Philip Morris, watches with interest while Gordon Davis and Mr. Joe Uram explain the "Concentration of Heat Waves," at Open House.



Also, Bill Duesing shows his project, a Wilson Cloud Chamber, to Roger Leachman. Along with other student entries, this placed high in the Richmond Science Fair.

Worthwhile achievements mingled with pleasant memories highlighted our memories of an outstanding junior year. Our fine officers, David Call, president; Martha Hardwicke, vice-president; Sue Hungate, secretary; and Dick Carlton, treasurer; certainly did their best to make a go of the year. We really outshone the seniors in our class drive, as our class of '61 obtained 100 per cent membership. We were the second class in Tee Jay's history to accomplish this! Our Stunt Night production, "Some Like It Cool," was just as successful. John Paul Jones starred in a detective story which included talent acts ranging from ballet to juggling and a beatnik poetry session.

We didn't forget our studies amidst all the fun, however, and we tackled varied advanced courses. Those who took advanced algebra will be ready for college math next year, and those who took the tough English course, Journalism, finished the year with a working knowledge of newspaper writing, as well as regular junior English. The American Field Service Campaign in January sparked quite a rivalry between the homerooms as to which could contribute the most money. The winners, 201 and 310, will both have next year's exchange student in their room for a term. The many spring activities and events brought the year to a close all too soon. Although we may look back with satisfaction on our junior year, we may look forward to our final year as seniors and say, "Just wait till next year!"

Pat Goldman, Gayle Hollenbeck, Jeannette Baker, Susan Todd, and Joey Smith watch Susan Miller win another game of tic-tac-toe with the spotlight in the Stunt Night preview assembly.

With the addition of two new high schools in Richmond, the inevitable question arose of who was to attend them. Would the juniors now at Tee Jay be allowed to finish at Tee Jay? The new schools, John Marshall in the North Side and George Wythe in the South Side, would be completed by the fall of 1960. Many felt it would be exciting to go to a new school and help organize the activities there. Others became very much upset at the idea of leaving Tee Jay. Mr. Willett, Superintendent of Richmond Public Schools, came and talked to the juniors. They were given a chance to vote on whether they wanted to stay at Tee Jay or attend one of the new schools. It was decided that the juniors could choose where they would like to finish high school.

Mary Mena Gill, Mr. H. I. Willett, and Susan Todd discuss the future of the class of '61.

Paper drive, class dance, bicycle auction—these were only a few of our many projects. The hard work and co-operation of every sophomore class member made each activity a memorable one. We elected class officers and three senators last spring; serving as officers were Mary Meade Gordon, president; Kenny Gray, vice-president; Judy Scott, secretary; and John Lisman, treasurer. Pat Tyler, Anne Ferrell Smith, and Billy Collins served in the Senate, joined at mid-term by Sue Salemme and Billy Stanley. With these capable leaders representing us, our membership drive hit a sky-high mark of six hundred. Following the drive was the annual bicycle auction to raise money for our class. Bill Manning won with a bid of $15. The selling of Thomas Jefferson stickers, undertaken by the junior-varsity cheerleaders, was greeted enthusiastically not only by the sophomores, but also by the rest of the student body. We were privileged to provide coatrooms for both the Senior-Junior and Junior-Senior dances. To top off a truly memorable year, we had our class dance, which everyone enjoyed thoroughly. Like the sophomores, we freshmen had an active year, our first in senior high. We elected our senator, Louise Tabb, and class officers, Becky White, president; Billy Ackerman, vice-president; Russell Rowlett, secretary; and Tommy Reed, treasurer. Under their leadership, our class drive was very profitable. The money from the drive helped pay for our spring picnic. Many underclassmen will leave Thomas Jefferson next year as two new high schools are being built in the Richmond area, but we who remain will strive to set an even higher record.

Mrs. Kathleen Hancock, Sponsor of the Freshman Class, discusses her future plans with L'll Jeff, Marcia Gemmill.

"Call time out!" shouts the head coach to his co-captain after the play has been executed. This means that there will be about thirty seconds for the team to discuss its progress and its scoring opportunities. The time out is very important since it gives the team a variation from the regular game routine of running plays. Every second must be used carefully to improve the tactics of the team, as well as to refresh the tired players. At Thomas Jefferson the time out consisted of all extracurricular activities in the school. These activities gave students a chance to take an active part in the organizations as well as to give a change in the tempo of the school day. Most organizations held their meetings during homeroom periods, at which time each club discussed projects, business and other items. Clubs also planned numerous projects and activities which proved very beneficial to the student body. The role of the organizations in school life at Thomas Jefferson should never be underestimated, for, as in the time out of a football game, the clubs furnish the student body with a spark to "play" more enthusiastically.

LEADERSHIP MADE THE DIFFERENCE . . . .

At Thomas Jefferson every student is a member of the Student Participation Association. This organization, which is similar to the government of the United States, strives to achieve student participation in school affairs and organizations. In the two main governing bodies, the Senate and the House of Representatives, plans are made for school activities and for the betterment of the school.

The Senate, which is the school's most important governing body, is composed of senators elected from each of the four classes; the presidents of the classes; and five S.P. officers—the president, vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary, and treasurer. During the year this body assembled every day in room 408 to discuss school problems. They organized various school committees with senators serving as chairmen. Planning exam week and devising a system to sell school rings were among the many problems they handled. The Senate also worked for better faculty-student relations and sold book covers and interpreters to raise funds for the school. Senators were sent as delegates to the city, state, and regional Student Council Association conventions.

The election of the S.P. officers by the student body in the spring highlighted the year after a week of campaigning which included speeches, posters, and publicity stunts.

The House of Representatives serves as the means of communication between the Senate and student body and plays an important part in the Student Participation Association. It is composed of one representative from each homeroom who takes suggestions from the homeroom to the House, where they may be considered. The Student Participation vice-president presides over the House and represents it at all Senate meetings.

During the year a House committee kept the calendar in the front hall up to date and another acquired music to be played in the "rec" hall and cafeteria during lunch. To promote a better understanding of the Student Participation Association among the student body was the purpose of this year's House. In relation to this project they had a question and answer period in the homerooms and published a mimeographed sheet explaining our student government at Thomas Jefferson. For their Christmas project the House presented each teacher with a Christmas corsage. The representatives played a big part in raising money to finance our foreign exchange student next year. The House was also responsible for electing the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders in the spring.

HONESTY WAS PROMOTED DURING EXAM WEEK . . . .

The Honor Council strives to promote honest standards among the students at Thomas Jefferson by issuing and replacing honor cards, by designating and planning Honor Week and Code-Signing Week, by hearing and acting upon any violation of the honor code, and by answering any questions of the students about the honor system. Serving in an advisory capacity, the Honor Council tries to discourage cheating and lying and attempts to prevent the willful and intentional destruction of property. To stress the importance of the school pledge and to inspire students to be honest with themselves are two basic purposes of the Honor Council. Because of the increased participation of the student body in Code-Signing Week, the Honor Council realized the need for a revised and up-to-date file of honor cards. Assisted by the Character Committee representatives, the Honor Council was able to classify each student either as a participant or non-participant, and to establish an accurate list of all students losing honor cards. After losing an honor card twice, a student must appear before the Honor Council before he may obtain a new card. Since its establishment in 1957, the Honor Council has impressed upon the student body the importance of being honest with one's self and with others "in thought, in word, and in deed at all times."

B.O.C. "BRIDGED THE GAP"

The Board of Coordination, better known as the B.O.C., is comprised of the officers and sponsor of the Student Participation Association, the presidents and sponsors of each of the four classes, the chairman of Club Affiliations and representatives from the cadets, the music department, boys' and girls' athletics, and the literary and business staffs of the publications. The B.O.C. strives to promote understanding and cooperation between the various extracurricular groups by planning a schedule of school functions and trying to give each organization an equal opportunity to carry out its program. By assigning dates for school dances, plays, games, and club meetings, conflicts between the different groups were lessened. The B.O.C. is willing to hear suggestions from any member of the faculty or student body as to new activities or proposed changes that will benefit the entire student body. (Also any problems in the scheduling of extracurricular activities can be brought before the B.O.C. for consideration.) One of the main projects of the school for this year was the "Bridge the Gap" campaign sponsored by the B.O.C. Because it was whole-heartedly supported by the student body, enough money was raised to bring a foreign exchange student to Thomas Jefferson next year through the American Field Service Program.

The purposes of the Character Committee are to promote the ideals stated in the school pledge and to become better citizens in their school, their home, their community, and their country. Since its establishment in 1945, the Character Committee has been promoting the many phases of character-building as stated in the school pledge— ". . . honesty, courtesy, self-control, cooperation, and obedience to authority, with kindness and justice to all."

The representatives from each homeroom carried out the programs and activities planned by the steering committee, headed by the Senate chairman, Jebbie Beach, and composed of a representative from each of the four classes. At meetings held on the first Tuesday of every month, problems of interest to the student body as a whole were discussed, and ideas for the improvement of the honor system were exchanged. The programs to be sponsored by the Character Committee were presented and explained to each homeroom by its representative. The most important duty of the Character Committee members was to assist the Honor Council in conducting the signing of the Honor Code in the homerooms.

Each year at Christmas time, the Character Committee sponsors a charity project. This year, with the support of the student body, enough money was raised to present the City Home with a new wheel chair and also to donate athletic equipment

As in the past, fifty-cent pieces were attached to Christmas cards and given to one hundred men and women at the City Home. Also at Christmas time, the Character Committee joined forces with the Christian Youth League to sponsor "Singspirations"—carol singing held before school in the auditorium each morning before the holidays.

To promote and stress better interfaith relations, Brotherhood Week, climaxed with the interfaith assembly, was recognized as a most important observance. At the assembly, three speakers, outstanding representatives of the Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths, spoke on the meaning, the necessity, and the promotion of world brotherhood.

The theme for this year's activities of the Character Committee was "Today We Are Building Tomorrow's Character." Through March, April, May, and June, the use of honor cards by all students was emphasized. Many students, even though they have honor cards, rarely use them or understand what they mean. The Character Committee representatives in their individual homerooms tried to impress upon the student body the importance of honesty in everyday life, both in and out of school.

THEY SERVED AT HOME . . . .

The Thomas Jefferson Chapter of the Junior Red Cross is designed to help those who are unable to help themselves. It strives to promote good will throughout the world and to lend a helping hand to all those in need.

Through their projects, both in and out of school, the members of the Junior Red Cross faithfully carried out their motto, "We Serve." As stated in their pledge, each member believes "in service to others, for our country, our community, and our school; in health of mind and body to fit us for greater service; and in working for better human relations throughout the world." The representatives from each homeroom willingly worked together to carry out these worthwhile projects. The year was begun with the annual membership drive, the importance of which was stressed at the Red Cross assembly. Volunteer work at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital and the performance of various and useful jobs at the Red Cross Chapter House were all a part of the great work of the Junior Red Cross members. Volunteer work was also done at a local nursing home, and shut-in friends were remembered with gifts and visits. Junior Red Cross Recognition Day, held for the first time this year, honored students from all high schools in Richmond for their volunteer work at the Medical College, at McGuire Veterans' Hospital, on the Disaster Team and at the Red Cross Chapter House.

At Thanksgiving, each homeroom filled a basket with canned goods and groceries to be sent by the Red Cross to needy families and welfare institutions in the area. Again at the Christmas season the Junior Red Cross members conducted the filling of Christmas stockings which were taken to invalids and veterans at McGuire Hospital. Last year, for the first time, the Junior Red Cross sponsored a school chest to be sent to a disaster area, a rural area, or a refugee camp somewhere in the world. Again this year a chest was filled with school, health, and recreational supplies, including pencils, paper, toothbrushes, toothpaste, and small toys, contributed by the students in their individual homerooms. The Junior Red Cross also sponsored the compiling of a correspondence album, picturing the city of Richmond, to be sent to schools in a foreign country.

Under the guidance of Miss Sue Beaman, the Junior Red Cross has accomplished many outstanding services to the school and the community. Many students participate in this organization. As stated in the pledge, "We have joined the American Junior Red Cross to help achieve its aims by working together with members everywhere in our own and other lands."

PRESIDENTS PLANNED LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE . . . .

The presidents of Thomas Jefferson's homerooms meet the first Tuesday of each month to learn to become better leaders in the school and to plan and carry out projects of benefit to the school. Although the Council of Homeroom Presidents has no executive or lawmaking powers, it has, since its founding in 1947, done much toward better planned and more orderly homeroom meetings.

This year better leadership was encouraged by the Council through its third annual leadership conference for homeroom presidents, senators, representatives, club officers, and any interested students. The theme of the conference, held December 8, 1959, in the school auditorium, was "Leadership to Build for the Future." The large number of students who attended the conference heard informative talks presented by members of the Omicron Delta Kappa honorary leadership fraternity of the University of Richmond. It was interesting to note that one of the ODK speakers was Brad Gunter, a former member of the Council of Homeroom Presidents and ex-president of the Student Participation Association. After the general meeting, the participants met in smaller groups led by members of the Senate to discuss specific school problems. Through these discussions, numerous helpful suggestions for improving school spirit, student-faculty relations, participation in school activities, and individual homeroom meetings were made. It was felt that those who attended the conference will now have more leadership ability and greater potential as the leaders of tomorrow. This year the Council was led by Dennis Ownby, who, as president of the Student Participation Association, also served as Council chairman; and Mrs. Katherine Brumble served as the faculty sponsor.

Sydney Knox and James Barton were elected secretary of the Council and chairman of the Council's project committee, respectively. These officers were re-elected at the first meeting of the second term and therefore served the entire year. The project committee is responsible for planning such activities as the leadership conference, while the secretary must take minutes of the Council's meetings and keep attendance records. The presidents served Thomas Jefferson through such jobs as distributing to their homerooms pep rally tickets, student theater identification cards, and ballots for the "Miss Jeff" election. Perhaps the presidents' most important service to their school, however, is presiding over and conducting orderly, well-planned homeroom meetings through the use of good parliamentary procedure. Without these meetings, a close union between the homerooms and the S.P. would be impossible.

Each club which is recognized by the school administration at Thomas Jefferson is represented in Club Affiliations by its president. This organization sees that each club abides by the rules set forth in its charter. It also regulates the time and location of each club's meetings in order to avoid conflicts. Sponsored by Mrs. Anne Plunkett, Club Affiliations serves as a link between the Senate and the individual clubs. Through ideas gained in the bi-monthly meetings, each club is able to make its meetings and programs more interesting. Members of this organization strive to increase student participation through club activities and projects. When any club desires to undertake a project or any other type of activity, it must first have such plan approved by Club Affiliations as well as the Senate. Such careful checking as this prevents a duplication of projects by several clubs. To enable more students to participate in clubs, the members of Club Affiliations help to organize new clubs. The presiding officer of Club Affiliations is the corresponding secretary of the Student Participation Association. This officer also represents all the clubs on the Board of Coordination. Membership in Club Affiliations greatly improves the activities of the clubs in the school.

. . . . YOUTH LEAGUE SPONSORED "SINGSPIRATION"

The Christian Youth League strives to promote Christian fellowship among the student body, giving the students an opportunity to work together for others and to become a part of a world-wide fellowship. At the meetings each Friday during home room period, the theme "God and My Vocation" was presented by outstanding speakers representing the ministry, business, government, and the professional field. The programs, consisting of a short devotional message and a prayer were always closed with a friendship circle, a symbol of fellowship. Working jointly with the Character Committee, the Christian Youth League sponsored carol singing in the auditorium each morning before the Christmas holidays. The group showed their holiday spirit again by caroling at the Methodist Home for the Aged. At the Easter season, the members gave a card shower for invalids at the hospital. Not only during holidays, but throughout the year, various groups broadened their outreach by making joke scrapbooks for hospitals and visiting the patients. The highlight of the year was the spring banquet, at which time the officers for the coming year were installed. The Christian Youth League strives to put into daily practice the ideals stated in the school pledge — "honesty, courtesy, self-control, cooperation, and obedience to authority with kindness and justice to all."

FUTURE JOURNALISTS WON HIGH ACCLAIM . . . .

A chapter of the Quill and Scroll was established at Thomas Jefferson in 1944; ten years later it became known as the Ellen Glasgow Chapter of the Quill and Scroll. Ellen Glasgow, born in Richmond, was a noted novelist whose literary work was chiefly concerned with the history of the South during the Reconstruction Period.

The Quill and Scroll Honor Society promotes interest in journalism and rewards individual achievement in journalistic fields. To become eligible for membership in this international honor society, a student must have worked on either the literary or business staff of the two school publications, the Monticello and Jeffersonian, for at least one year. He must also maintain a "B" or better scholastic average and be recommended by his publication sponsor. Before his membership in the Quill and Scroll is final, he must be approved by the national executive secretary of the organization.

To give recognition for outstanding work on the publications at Thomas Jefferson, the Quill and Scroll has both fall and spring initiation services. The fall service was held after school in room 218, while the spring service was held at a special assembly program. Those who were members of the Quill and Scroll at the time presented the initiation service. Each participant lit a candle from a center candle which stood for Truth. The various candles lit from this center candle represent Initiative, Opportunity, Leadership, Loyalty, Enlightenment, and Friendship. These are essential qualities of good journalism. The initiates then lit their own candles and repeated the Quill and Scroll pledge: "I do pledge myself to do all in my power to work for the advancement of my community, to be loyal to my superiors, to live up to the ideals of true journalism, and to be impartial in my interpretation of Truth." The initiates were then presented with their Quill and Scroll pins. After the induction service the new members were congratulated by their parents, friends, and faculty members at an informal gathering.

Regular meetings of the organization are held on the first Tuesday in the month in room 328 and called meetings are sometimes held on the third Tuesday. The Quill and Scroll entered a float in the homecoming parade preceding the John Marshall football game; and they participated in the freshman assembly. They also secured new electric candles which may be used by the school in future years for the candlelight induction service. The faculty sponsors of this literary society are Mrs. Thelma Hutton and Miss Estelle Tankard, both of whom advise the Jeffersonian Business and Literary Staffs respectively.

YEAR'S EVENTS WERE RECORDED . . .

The members of the Monticello Literary Staff put in many hours of work to portray the activities and life of the school through pictures, copy, and art. The annual is divided into seven sections: Faculty, Classes, Clubs, Military, School Life, Athletics, and Advertisements. Each section editor tried hard to carry out the yearbook theme which was chosen by both the Literary and Business Staffs. The members of the Literary Staff had the opportunity of planning, organizing, and designing the yearbook. Pictures were taken and then cropped to fit a specific space. The name lists and captions for the pictures were carefully drawn up. Then copy was written and headlines were prepared. A complete dummy of the book was also prepared; finally, each section was sent to the printer. At the conventions of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Southern Interscholastic Press Association the Monticello was represented by staff members. Speeches by persons active in yearbook work, and discussions with representatives of other schools gave the members of the staff ideas for improving the annual. At the annual Monticello banquet in the spring, there was much excitement as the staff members were given the new Monticello and positions for the coming year were announced. After looking through the new annual, the Literary Staff and Miss Lowance, the faculty sponsor, began making plans to make next year's Monticello better than ever. To become a member of the Literary Staff, a student must have above average grades and must be a hard worker. He must also be accurate and have a superior knowledge of English. Few people realize the amount of work and time the members of the Literary Staff spend working on the annual and striving to meet deadlines.

WE SOLD THE ADS . . . .

The most necessary skill for a member of the Monticello Business Staff is that of good salesmanship, for it is this staff which handles advertisements and subscriptions. The staff members must secure advertising contracts from various merchants, arrange and compile ad proofs to be sent to the printers, and solicit sales for the annual. For the purpose of straightening out difficulties, a business meeting is held each Friday in room 107. Advertising contracts, the budget, and good salesmanship practices are discussed at this time, giving each student a knowledge of the business world which will prove beneficial in the future. It is also the Business Staff that arranges for individual junior and senior picture appointments. The photographers of this staff greatly assist the Literary Staff by taking pictures of the freshman and sophomore homerooms and the various clubs and organizations. The individual members of the Business Staff are responsible for selling annuals in

In the spring term, the staff is busy writing up and arranging advertisements and collecting the money from the ads from the business firms. They were also responsible for the distribution of annuals to every faculty member or student who purchased one and for the mailing of annuals to the February graduates who were not at Thomas Jefferson in June. Each year eligible juniors and seniors are inducted into Quill and Scroll as a reward for their faithful service on the Monticello Business Staff. Highlighting the annual spring banquet, given jointly by both Monticello Staffs, at which time new members were welcomed, new staff positions were announced, and the new annual, for the first time, was presented. Under the direction of Miss Gray, the members of the Monticello Business Staff learned to work well together and to accept more responsibility.

SOME TOOK THE PICTURES . . . . . .

Informing the student body of the activities of student life at Thomas Jefferson is the main purpose of the Jeffersonian. The news, sports, and features departments of the paper present accurate and informative coverage of school events, school sports, and stories of interest to the student body and faculty. This six-page newspaper is published bi-weekly by the Jeffersonian literary and business staffs. The page editors of the literary staff send out story assignments and are responsible for the copy on their pages. They draw up page dummies, measure and proofread stories, and write headlines. A staff of student photographers take and develop the pictures for the Jeffersonian, and typists on the staff type copy for the printer. Those who served as reporters and runners to the printer were seniors or juniors in 5xj or 6xj journalism classes. The staff, which met two periods a day, was supervised by the editor and the faculty sponsor, Miss Estelle Tankard. The editorial board, which is composed of those in top positions, is in charge of the editorial column and the policies of the paper. In this year's paper several changes were made. The name plate was changed and pictures of Thomas Jefferson, the outstanding statesman, and the school on the sides of the name plate were replaced by headlines explaining the contents of the paper. A new sports column, "Sports Seen by Schutt 'n Snead," and "T. J. Beat," a new feature column by a mystery writer, were other additions to the paper. Five literary staff members attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Convention in New York, and several delegates were sent to the Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention held at Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia. At these meetings staff members obtained new ideas and valuable information for future issues. Many of these outstanding members of the staff were recommended for membership in the Quill and Scroll. Experience gained by the members of this staff pays off constantly in later life.

MONEY WAS COLLECTED . . . .

Providing the funds to print the Jeffersonian is the main task of the Advertising and Circulation Staffs of the Jeffersonian. The Advertising Staff is in charge of securing advertisements for the paper. First the solicitors call on local business concerns to secure ads; next the copywriters prepare the copy for the ads with the advertisers' advice. Then the managers make up the ad layout and the filing and billing.

The Circulation Staff handles subscriptions to the paper. This staff consists of lieutenants, captains, and managers. The staff promotes a subscription drive each semester during which seven issues are sold for sixty cents. The money is collected by the lieutenants in the homerooms and then turned over to the captains. The staff, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Thelma Hutton, also handles mailing subscriptions of the Jeffersonian. Experience gained from working on these staffs is invaluable in post-school years.

CHOIR PRESENTED "CAROUSEL" . . . .

All members of the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs and the Preparatory Choir strive for membership in the A Cappella Choir, composed of approximately eighty selected students who have reached the stage of advanced performance. By singing all types of music and by critically listening and watching concerts, television programs, and movies, the choir members developed a discriminating approach to music and increased their knowledge of the varied musical fields.

Constantly working hard to represent Thomas Jefferson in the best possible way, the choir practiced every day at fifth period. Throughout the year, the choir added the musical background for many of the assembly programs and activities out of school. The Thanksgiving Assembly, the Christmas program, the Brotherhood Assembly, Baccalaureate, and Commencement were only a part of the choir's varied activities in school. As in the past two years, the choir, working with the orchestra, combined with various Richmond choral groups to present Handel's "Messiah" at the Mosque on December 8. The A Capella Choir also provided the special music for an evening service at First Baptist Church. Twenty-four members, selected from the soprano, alto, tenor, and bass sections of the choir, represented Thomas Jefferson at the Eastern Division All-State Choir, composed of students from all high schools in the eastern part of Virginia.

Something new this year was an invitation to the choir to present a musical program for the students at Patrick Henry High School, a newly-organized school in Ashland, Virginia. Following that, the annual spring concert was held on March 11. The Music Department of Thomas Jefferson presented a program of orchestral and vocal music, at which time the choir sang a medley from this year's selected operetta, "Carousel." Although the operetta required many after-school and Saturday rehearsals, on opening night each participant had a feeling of real satisfaction. "Carousel," centered around carnival life, was filled with familiar songs such as "You'll Never Walk Alone," "If I Loved You," and "June Is Bustin' Out All Over." The leads were Mary Lynn Frye, David Katz, Jane Broaddus, Bob Dunville, Grace Cosby, and Billy Welsh. It was under the direction of Betsy Burton and Mary Ellen Harvey, the co-directors; and Mrs. Eddington, the adult adviser.

Aside from learning new pieces and preparing programs, the choir members spent several class periods discussing various musical terms and well-known composers and musicians. Through these varied activities, the A Cappella Choir greatly increased their knowedge of all types of music.

Cabell Parker, Mary Anne Whitehead, Gloria Ambrose, Marty Millis, Ann Marston, and Amanda Eddington help Mr. Howell make out the grades.

CHOIR SANG FOR THE PUBLIC

Frequently a chorus sings at an assembly.

Under the expert direction of Mr. Wendt, the orchestra practices and rehearses during the fifth period each day in the band room. To keep every member of the orchestra playing his own instrument to the best of his ability, regular tryouts are held. Each member, striving for the honor of being first chair in his section, plays a selection from a piece the entire orchestra has been working on. However, all the class time is not spent on practicing, for the orchestra members also study many of the world's great composers and their works.

This year the orchestra participated not only in assemblies and school activities, but also in various civic activities. The orchestra, with the A Cappella Choir and other various Richmond choral groups, presented Handel's "Messiah" at the Mosque, on December 8. Several members of the orchestra, chosen by Mr. Wendt, represented Thomas Jefferson at the All-State Band, held this year in Hopewell. As an annual custom, the orchestra sponsored the Spring Concert, their largest production of the year. Working jointly with the A Cappella Choir, the orchestra provided the accompaniment for this year's operetta, "Carousel." "Pomp and Circumstance," played majestically as the seniors marched down the aisles for graduation, brought this eventful year to a close.

The biology lab assistants' activities are very similar to those of the neighboring chemistry lab assistants. They are in charge of the biology equipment in room 3A, where several are on duty during each period. Preparing microscopes, slides, and materials for the classes each day relieves the biology teachers of much work. They must deliver these materials to the biology classrooms when they are needed and then return them to 3A at the close of the period. Assistants also run errands for the biology teachers. To become a member of this organization, which is sponsored by Mrs. Finch, a student must have had at least one year of science, must be industrious and interested in biology, and must have above average grades. As a reward for his services, a student not only receives S.P. points but also obtains a deeper knowledge and understanding of biology.

BIOLOGY AND CHEMISTRY ASSISTANTS AIDED TEACHERS . . . .

Each day the chemistry laboratory assistants may be seen working quietly and diligently in room 325. This organization is composed of students interested in chemistry and recommended by their instructors. A group of assistants was on duty during each study period in the chemical stock room. They assisted Miss Gill, the faculty sponsor, in preparing chemicals, setting out equipment, and filling acid bottles for class experiments. The assistants also unlocked and locked desks at the beginning and end of each period and kept the laboratory ready for incoming classes. Sometimes they were asked to type orders, run errands, administer first aid, and help students who were behind in their work. This experience furthered their knowledge of chemistry and provided the chemistry teachers with excellent aids. Students interested in science apply for this work.

Every morning, bright and early, before school, the Radio Committee met in the radio room next to the office to prepare announcements and to instruct persons reading devotions. Beginning at 8:45 a.m., the daily announcements were broadcast over the public address system into the homerooms. These notices, which concerned the time and place of meetings, sports, tryouts for plays, and other coming events, informed the student body and the faculty of all matters of current and future interest. Following announcements, a short devotion was presented by members of the various school organizations. These inspirational messages and prayers provided a good thought for the day. The members of the Radio Committee strived to achieve perfection and clarity in radio announcing. They were selected from the advanced speech classes by the committee sponsor.

Any student wishing to learn more about the opportunities offered by an engineering career and having at least one year in a related scientific subject is urged to join the Thomas Jefferson Engineers' Club. This club, a member of the Junior Academy of Science, met twice a month; the first Friday in each month was reserved for a business meeting while a program meeting was held later in the month. These interesting programs have consisted of speakers, movies, and trips to nearby industries. Among these were a tour of the Reynolds Metals Metallurgical Laboratory and a trip to a local foundry. The club also worked on a project during the year. Striving to promote a greater interest in the field of engineering, the Engineers' Club, sponsored by Mr. Arthur Allison, has given its members a chance to develop their skills in the field of engineering.

Sponsored by Mr. Alton Howell, the stage crew is in charge of the stage props. These boys were in charge of placing and controlling the volume of the microphones, drawing curtains and making sure they were safe, and controlling the stage lights. Preparing the stage for assembly programs and clearing it at the end of the performance were the main functions of the members. This made it necessary for the crew manager to contact each assembly sponsor and learn what the crew was to do. To help anyone wishing to use the stage, at least two members of the crew were on duty each period. Stage crew members also provided valuable assistance in Junior Stunt Night, the Operetta, the Senior Class Play, and other activities after school hours which required use of the stage. With their assistance, the shows and programs ran smoothly and were informative to all.

THEY LEARNED LINES AND MOVED SCENERY . . . .

The National Thespian Society is a national dramatic honor society composed of students greatly interested in dramatics. To become qualified for membership, a student must be recommended by his drama teacher and he must have at least ten service points in dramatic activities, such as the Senior Class Play, Junior Stunt Night, assemblies, the Operetta, or plays in community theaters. Members were chosen according to their participation in such productions. Service points were awarded for actual acting on the stage and also for serving as stage hands, understudies, or committee chairmen. All students interested in any part of play production strive for membership in this organization. Through the National Thespian Society, Chapter 741, these interested students promoting the advancement of dramatic arts in the secondary schools were recognized.

To become better citizens and to become better acquainted with the United States government as well as with national and international current events are the goals of the members of the Forum. This club is composed of students who desire to further their knowledge of past and present world events and who are exceptionally interested in history. Before becoming a member of the Forum, one must be recommended by his history or government teacher. The Forum met on the first and third Wednesday in each month for a program or business meeting. The programs included group discussions, panels, movies, and well-informed speakers. Among the most interesting programs during the year were movies on the Russian Revolution and World War II. The entire membership participated on panels and expressed their opinions freely on local and national affairs.

. . . . LANGUAGE AIDED INTERNATIONAL UNDERSTANDING

The Thomas Jefferson French Club, known as Le Cercle Francais, endeavors to further knowledge and interest in the French language, the people, the country and in French art. In order to carry out these aims the French Club met twice each month. These meetings were devoted to club business or some special program such as a speaker, a discussion, records, or a movie. During these meetings the members had an opportunity to practice conversational French. During the year the French Club carried out various projects. They visited the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and sponsored French Week at Thomas Jefferson. They also took part in the annual Foreign Language Banquet and sponsored morning devotions. Through the guidance of Miss Eunice V. Gill, the club sponsor, the members gained a greater appreciation of France and the French language.

LATINA EST MATER LINGUARUM . . . .

Fautores Fideles Ciceronis, the Faithful Followers of Cicero, is a newly-organized Latin Club sponsored by Miss Fitzhugh. The purposes for establishing this club were to promote a further interest in Roman life during Cicero's day and to appreciate the exacting study of elementary Latin. The club motto, "Ad Optima Contendere," was the incentive in planning informative and entertaining programs throughout the year. Membership in the National Junior Classical League was one of the most important aspects of the club. Films and slides, guest speakers, a field trip to the museum, and programs with the central theme of life in Cicero's day were all a part of extending an active interest in Roman life. The climax of this full first year of Fautores Fideles Ciceronis was the picnic in the spring with students from other Latin clases invited.

HABLA USTED ESPANOL?

The Thomas Jefferson Spanish Club strives to stimulate interest in the culture and customs of the Spanish-speaking countries and to add to the general knowledge considering these countries. This is done by informative programs and varied activities. The club meetings were for both business and programs. Among the programs were moving pictures of Mexico and guest speakers who had lived or visited in Spanish-speaking countries. During the year the club sold stationery to raise money; some of this money was used to provide food and clothing for a needy family at Christmas. Members of the club also attended the annual Language Banquet and took part in the program. Language students from all the Richmond area high schools participated in this banquet. Membership is not confined to Spanish students but is open to any students interested in the Spanish language, people, or customs. The members receive excellent guidance and advice from the faculty sponsor, Miss Elizabeth Beaman. Through membership in this club, students gained a greater knowledge and understanding of the Spanish-speaking countries.

The German Club, sponsored by Mrs. Thelma Hutton, who teaches the German classes, met every other Friday during the year for business as well as program meetings. The members endeavored to obtain interesting and informative programs on the German nation and the customs and life of the German people.

Among these programs were several movies on Germany and speakers who had been to Germany, including Jane Trevillian, who visited Germany under the American Field Service Program. The club's main project during the year was to stimulate interest in German and create an incentive to study the language. As part of this project they sponsored German Week in March. During this week the club placed maps and posters of Germany in the halls to build interest in the club. On October 31, members of the club entertained at the Virginia Education Convention. Club members also prepared a Thanksgiving and Easter basket for a needy family, and during the Community Chest drive they volunteered their services. The club also sponsored morning devotions one week during the year. In the spring the club presented a skit at the language banquet held at the John Marshall Hotel. The members of the German Club gained much knowledge through the various programs and service projects.

. . . . .NICHT SO GUT, ABER ICH LERNE

The German I Club, organized this year, includes all students in their first year of German. Because the current textbook did not include much about life among the German people or much about the country itself, the German I Club, at its bi-monthly meetings, presented various programs revealing interesting and important facts about the Germans. Musicians, writers, and scientists introduced the group to many of the customs and traditions of Germany, and movies pictured the country, its cities and its people. To arouse the interest of the members, spelling bees and songfests were often held, and some Christmas carols were learned in the original German. The club also presented a program at the modern language banquet. Not only did the German I Club study about the foreign country of Germany, but they also carried out programs to help people in our own country. At Thanksgiving, they presented a basket of food to a needy family, and, at Christmas, they provided food and gifts to make a family's holiday more enjoyable. To show their school spirit, the German I Club decorated a float for the T.J.-J.M. game, and as a group, contributed to the "Bridge the Gap" campaign to bring a foreign student to Thomas Jefferson next year. Under the sponsorship of Miss Hutton, the German I Club has had a full and exciting year.

MEMBERS CARRIED ON TRADITIONS . . . .

The Harry A. Woody Club, named in honor of its former sponsor, Mr. Harry A. Woody, is composed of thirty sophomore, junior, and senior boys of outstanding character. Mr. Woody was a teacher at Thomas Jefferson until his retirement in 1957. Because he was deeply interested in young people, he promoted this service organization for boys.

Prospective members must first seek membership in the club through written application. These applications are reviewed and the applicants are screened. Then the applicants are voted upon by the present members of the club.

During the year members carried out various club projects. They sold "Beat J.M." cards to boost school spirit and entered a float in the parade before the John Marshall game. On February 19, the members took a group of nine boys from the Richmond Boys' Home to a basketball game. In addition, they were responsible for moving tables for the Sadie Hawkins Dance into the gym and furnishing the table cloths. They donated five dollars to the Christmas Mother and attended church as a group. Under the guidance of Mr. Carl Bolt the club demonstrated outstanding service.

. . . . GIRLS PROMOTED GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

The Tebahoes, a girls' athletic club, strives to develop and extend high standards of integrity and to make the school a better place for clean thinking and living through the observance of sportsmanship. To become eligible for membership, a girl must have one varsity award on a school team plus cooperation, character, and the spirit to uphold the high ideals of sportsmanship. Awards are presented according to the number of years a girl has played on a varsity team—a letter the first year, a medal the second, a charm the third, and a bracelet the fourth. At the end of each athletic season, the awards are presented at a banquet in honor of the entire team. As services to the school, members served on a cafeteria committee, presented a skit in the freshman assembly, and presented a program for the new girls to encourage them to participate in sports. The leading project of the Tebahoes for this past year was the support of a needy family, presenting them with baskets containing food, clothing, and toys. Each year as a part of tradition, the Teacher-Tebahoes basketball game provides entertainment for both the faculty and students. Proceeds from these fund-raising projects go toward new equipment for girls' athletics.

JUNIOR KIWANIANS HELPED THE NEEDY . . . .

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the Thomas Jefferson Key Club consists of boys chosen for their high scholastic standing, leadership ability, and outstanding character. The purposes of this international organization are to develop leadership and initiative, to prepare for useful citizenship, to serve the school and community, to provide experience in living and working together, and to build strong character. During the year, the club undertook various projects. They helped a needy family at Thanksgiving and again at Christmas. In order to increase school spirit, they competed with Hi-Y II at several cheer rallies before important games. The boys also sold pencils on which was printed, "Thomas Jefferson High School," and sold drinks at Junior Stunt Night. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Clary, faculty sponsor, and Mr. Knight, Kiwanis representative, the Key Club met every other Thursday night in the "rec" hall. Jane Trevillian spoke on her trip to Germany at one of the meetings; other speakers spoke on such topics as alcoholism and vocations. Delegates were sent to the annual convention of the Capital District of which the local club is a member. This convention was held in Williamsburg, Virginia, on February 19-21. These delegates gained many new ideas for the Key Club and voiced the club's opinion in district matters.

Clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean scholarship, and clean living not only at Thomas Jefferson but throughout the community are mottoes which members of Hi-Y II support. The purpose of the club is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community the highest standards of Christian character. Because Hi-Y clubs are associated with the Young Men's Christian Association, most of the activities of the Thomas Jefferson chapter take place at the local Y.M.C.A. building; the facilities of the "Y" are also made available to the Richmond area Hi-Y chapters. Hi-Y II met every Tuesday for a business meeting, which was followed by a guest speaker, movie, or some planned activity. The members of this club, which was sponsored by Mr. Padgett, carried out many projects in school this year as well as out of school. They sold programs at home football games and participated in the city-wide Hi-Y basketball league. Hi-Y II also helped in the cafeteria and "rec" hall during lunch to see that tables were kept clean. Sponsoring a needy family at Christmas was another club service. Two members, Pete Gordon and Guy Tower, served as president and chaplain respectively of the Eastern District Hi-Y's of Virginia. As a highlight of the year, Thomas Jefferson served as host to the 1959 Conference of the Eastern District.

To become a member of the Pep Club, a student must fill out an application, including a paragraph on his reasons for desiring membership. The applications are read over and the members are selected by the varsity cheerleaders. Membership continues until the student graduates. Because the membership was too large to accomplish anything, a new constitution was drawn up and the club was reorganized last year with its membership limited to seventy-five. Rather than on a direct homeroom representation basis, members are now selected from the student body at large. All the varsity cheerleaders and the two junior cheerleaders are included in the total membership of seventy-five. The official pin of the Pep Club is a red and white megaphone, inscribed with "Tee Jay Pep Club."

The main objective of the Pep Club is to promote school spirit among the student body, and, through participation in various activities, the members try to carry out this purpose. Again this year, the Pep Club sent the varsity cheerleaders to a cheer rally held in the Benedictine School gym. Being judged by a group of college cheerleaders on one cheer and one school song, the squad was given a chance to compare themselves with the cheerleaders of the neighboring schools and to learn new and interesting cheering techniques. In order to support their team, the Pep Club attended several of the football games as a group. They advertised future games by posters displayed in the hall, and, to promote more interest and a greater school spirit, they sold "Beat John Marshall" and "Beat Springers" cards during football and basketball seasons. For the last football game between Thomas Jefferson and the present John Marshall, the Pep Club decorated the float for Miss Jeff and her court. Because Thomas Jefferson and John Marshall have always been arch rivals, our last football game with the present school was one of the most important games of the year. Therefore, the Pep Club did its best to arouse school spirit among the student body and to encourage a large representation at the game. Members of the Pep Club also gave out basketball programs at the door and sold programs for the Central District Basketball Tournament. In addition, they discussed the possibility of having boys on the cheering squad, which was the policy several years ago, but lack of interest caused its discontinuance.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Haywood Padgett, the Pep Club has been able to work together more efficiently and has been better organized this year. The Pep Club members have been able to carry out worthwhile projects to establish and promote an active school spirit in all sporting events at Thomas Jefferson.

THEY KEPT OUR SPIRITS HIGH . . . .

The varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders did an outstanding job during the year in building school spirit and providing enthusiasm for the teams. The girls were on hand for all the football and basketball games and spent many hours practicing cheers. They also participated in the annual cheer rally at the Benedictine gym. The cheerleaders presented an award to the homeroom that showed the most school spirit during the football and basketball seasons. Their unfaltering spirit and pep inspired the team in many difficult situations and won the admiration of the entire student body. Senior, junior and sophomore girls were eligible for positions as cheerleaders. Prospective members were selected by representatives of the House.

BOOKKEEPERS BALANCED THE BOOKS

Janice Enroughty watches Bill Baker post on the automatic bookkeeping machine while Mrs. Burden demonstrates the hand duplicator to Tommy Pruett and Barbara Berman.

The main purpose of the Bookkeeping Club is to acquaint the students with modern business and to impress upon them the importance of bookkeeping in the business world. Through talks on the field of accounting and by visiting bookkeeping offices, the members received firsthand information about bookkeeping procedures and saw what would be expected of them when they entered their future profession. Membership is open to those students who now take bookkeeping or have taken the subject in the past. Students with an active interest in business subjects are also welcomed into the club. When these Bookkeeping Club members are graduated, they are better equipped to apply successfully for positions.

FUNDS WERE RAISED FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL . . . .

To promote a better understanding with people of other races, nationalities, and religions, and to build good fellowship among girls throughout the school are the ultimate aims of the Y-Teens organization. Excellent opportunities to develop leadership ability and to work with others for the good of the school and the community were offered to those girls who were members. Y-Teens, a junior branch of the Central Young Women's Christian Association, emphasizes those ideals of both personal and social living to which we are committed by our Christian faith.

By carrying out various projects throughout the year, the girls participated in both service and fun. As its main fund-raising project this year, Y-Teens members sold potato chips, using the money raised to give an Easter party for the children at the Crippled Children's Hospital. At various times, the members, in small groups, worked at the City Home. The highlight of the year was National Roll Call Week held at the Y.W.C.A. with the group as a whole attending. To build fellowship within the group, Y-Teens members attended some of the football and basketball games as a unit. The faculty sponsor, Mrs. King, worked with the girls to help carry out their projects and to give every girl at Thomas Jefferson a chance to belong to this organization of service and fellowship.

The members of Y-Teens, Triangle II, sought this year to grow, as individual persons, in friendship with all people, and in the knowledge and love of God. Through their projects both in and out of school, a better understanding between different races, faiths, and nationalities was promoted.

One of their major projects for this term was an Easter Egg Hunt for the children at the Methodist Children's Home. The adoption of a needy family at Christmas time was another aspect of their service to others. The girls carried food to this family, decorated their tree, and brought toys for the small children. The girls' social program was begun with a tea in honor of all the new members in an effort to help both old and new girls become better acquainted. Also to promote fellowship and a closeness within their group, swimming parties, dances, and bermuda hops were held at the local Y.W.C.A., and the girls as a group attended both football and basketball games.

Each girl who is a member of Y-Teens strives for the Alma V. Lowance Y-Teen Award, given annually to the most deserving girl portraying the qualities of honesty, obedience, cooperation, self-control, and leadership. Miss Dillard, the new faculty sponsor, has given much advice and assistance to the members of Y-Teens, Triangle II, during her first year as sponsor.

This fall 35 new members were formally initiated at the V.E.A. building, increasing the total membership in the organization to 54. The members presented flowers to the new faculty to make them feel more welcome. In honor of all the teachers, National Teachers' Day and Teacher Appreciation Week were observed and a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Deierhoi

Convention, served as hostesses and ushers at educational meetings, presented programs on teaching, teachers' colleges, and scholarships, and maintained a teaching vocational file for all students interested in the teaching profession. The highlight of the year was the organization of the Bachelor F.T.A., composed of 11 boys. Through program and business meetings, the F.T.A. enables its members to acquire knowledge, to make worthy friends, and to strengthen their personalities.

POLIO STATISTICS WERE COMPILED . . . .

Mrs. Sweet, Mrs. Edmons and Cooky Sherman plan a meeting while Judy Arenstein and Sallie Berkeley look on.

The Future Nurses' Club is open to all girls interested in any branch of the nursing field. Informative and experienced speakers talking on the subject of nursing and hospital administration furthered the knowledge of the members in the field of medicine and increased their appreciation of a medical career. The Future Nurses learned much about their chosen career through volunteer work and service projects, the main one being a survey to promote the necessity of polio shots for students. By visiting numerous Richmond hospitals, by viewing films on the entire field of nursing, and through talks on the qualifications and extreme need for nurses, the girls have received an accurate picture of a career in nursing.

Best sellers, old and new books, and other forms of literature constituted the major interests of the bookworms of Thomas Jefferson. The members of the Book Club strived to increase their knowledge by reading essays and by spreading a greater appreciation for books throughout the school. On the second Monday of each month, the Book Club meetings featured book reviews, discussions of interest to all its members, dramatizations, and motion pictures. For the enjoyment of the club, the dramatics class put on a program of skits, bringing to life the characters of various books and plays. Both professional book reviewers and capable students presented many new books.

Cooperating with the library staff in promoting Book Week, the Book Club arranged attractive exhibits for display in the halls. In addition, the library contributed books to the club. Qualified representatives from the club attended the Children's Book Council of Richmond.

At the beginning of each term, students who are recommended by other Book Club members and by teachers in the English Department are invited to join the club. Under the sponsorship of Miss Singleton, the Book Club has fulfilled its purposes by gaining a greater knowledge and appreciation of literature.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS RECEIVED PRELIMINARY TRAINING . . . .

To prepare its members to meet the requirements of the business world and to acquaint them with business policies are the chief purposes of the Business Education Club. Membership is open to all students who are taking at least one business subject and who have a keen interest in business. By touring offices and having guest speakers from business concerns, the members have a direct contact with the business world. The meetings of the Business Education Club were held twice a month, at which time key persons in business offered many suggestions and helpful advice in applying for a position after graduation. Throughout the year, the club strived to cooperate with the school program through school projects. One of their projects for this year was the handling of a central Christmas card mailbox for the use of the entire student body. The members of the Business Education Club delivered these cards before school and during homeroom period. For recreation, a bowling team was formed by the club to compete against the other club teams of Thomas Jefferson. Morning devotions were also sponsored by the club. At the end of the year at the annual joint picnic of the Business Education Club and the Bookkeeping Club, members of the Alumni Association gave helpful hints derived from their recent contact with the business world.

TRIPS WERE TAKEN TO LOCAL INDUSTRIES

The Science Club, sponsored by Mrs. Finch and Miss Pitt, strives to promote interest in science among the student body and to broaden and deepen the understanding and knowledge of the branches of science.

During the year the Science Club visited several industries in and around Richmond. They were given guided tours through the Philip Morris Research Laboratory, Reynolds Metals Company, the Research Department of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, and the Research Laboratory of the Medical College of Virginia. Members of the Science Club also worked on projects under the supervision of several local industrial scientists. This gave the interested and capable members an opportunity to use the very latest and best in various types of equipment and to greatly increase their knowledge.

The Thomas Jefferson Science Club also brings worthy and deserving members to the attention of the Virginia Academy of Science. Through his work in the Science Club, which is affiliated with the Virginia Junior Academy of Science, a student can bring the chain of events leading to honors awarded annually to outstanding students by the Virginia Academy of Science. The Science Club also renders community service whenever the opportunity presents itself.

STUDENT AIDES PROMOTED LITERARY INTEREST . . . .

The Library Staff is composed of student assistants working in the library before and after school and during their study periods. To become a member of the Library Staff, a student must pass all subjects and have an interest in library work. Staff duties vary from checking out and receiving books to preparing new books for circulation. By alternating from week to week, the students become better acquainted with the numerous phases of library work.

"Two minutes left in the half!" shouts the head official to the teams' coaches as the first half draws to a close. This means that in two minutes, the halftime will come and the halftime ceremonies will commence. The crowd in the stands is eager and excited to see the marching band, the drum major, and the other halftime spectacles. This halftime entertainment is not all play, for it takes extensive practice to perfect the program. First, the band must practice its maneuvers and each man must know when and how to play his instrument. The drill team must be ready and alert to follow orders and execute them with speed and efficiency. Our Thomas Jefferson Cadet Corps corresponds to the halftime of the football game. This year the Corps devoted many hours of practice to perfecting the various formations, marches, and special drills. These hours of practice paid off when the competitive drills took place or when halftime activities were performed. There was also time for cadets to hold basketball games, parties, and the big Cadet Hop. The tireless efforts of the Cadet Corps during "halftime" were worthy of great commendation.

"Courage, conviction, and consecration," the motto of the Cadet Corps, have been the ideals the Corps has strived to uphold in its eighteenth year of existence. This year two Cadet Hops, two Sponsors' Days, two Competitive Drills, and several parties were sponsored by the Corps. At each hop, thirty-six cadets and their dates, with the help of Colonel Linck and Mr. Harry A. Woody, presented five figures. On Sponsors' Day company ribbons were given by each cadet to the company sponsors. At the semi-annual Competitive Drills the companies competed against one another on the drill floor. These events in addition to company functions have made the Corps a success.

After each cadet has completed Military Science III he is eligible to receive an honorable discharge from the Corps. This discharge shows that the cadet has completed Drill 8 and has successfully passed courses in military courtesy and discipline, first aid and field sanitation, marksmanship, weapons, small unit tactics, map reading, and communications. Since the Corps is a member of the "55-C" Military School Program of the United States Government, all honorable graduates are eligible to begin in the advanced R.O.T.C. program in their respective colleges.

At the graduation program, awards and diplomas were given. The best recruit medal, a company award, went to the best rookie, while the best cadet medal, also a company award, was presented to the best all-round cadet. To a future officer who had shown qualities of leadership went the Donahue Sabre. The Donahue Musician's Medal was awarded to an outstanding musician in the band. The Senior who had done his best to carry out the ideals of the Corps was awarded the Miller and Rhoads Memorial Award and an outstanding Junior received the Founders Medal. Awards given to the companies as a unit were the Efficiency Cup and Basketball Trophy. Following the presentation of awards, the commandant announced the new ranks for the coming semester.

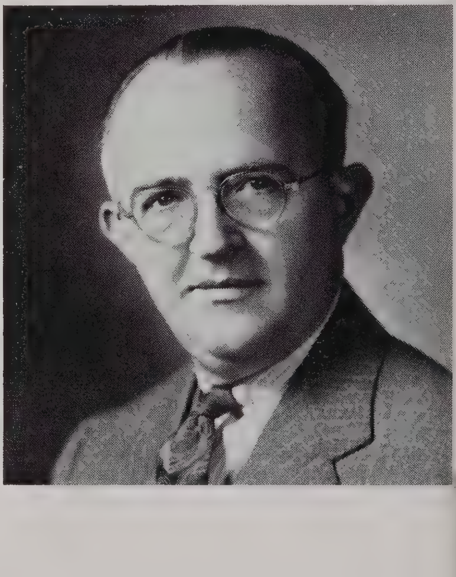
FRANK WENDT
Band Director



It was a familiar sight to see the band drilling before and after school, practicing for parades, football games, and other activities. They practiced many hours to make a good showing for their school and for the Corps. The band participated in all football games, giving excellent halftime entertainment with their special drills and fine music. In addition to participating in many assemblies, they appeared with the Corps in the Tobacco Festival, Memorial Day, and Oakwood Memorial parades. Other activities for many members of the band were the dance band and band drill platoon. Together with its own company functions, the band has had quite a busy year.

ORGANIZATIONS ADDED INTEREST IN THE CORPS . . . .

The drill platoon is composed of cadets from the three companies who are interested in representing the Corps for especially requested occasions. Members practice before and after school to become proficient in the Queen Anne's Manual, a special drill with rifles.

Every organization needs a select group to enforce its codes and punish offenders of these codes. That is the duty of the Cadet Honor Court. Members include the staff and company commanders. Since the honor court has a trial judge advocate and a defense counsel, it is similar to a regular court. The decisions on all cases brought before the court must first pass the approval of the commandant before they become final. Cadets found guilty of breaking rules may be punished by several methods, the worst being a dishonorable discharge.

"The experience of those lettermen was really used in that play!" Yes, the success of a team depends mainly on the skill and experience of the lettermen. In a game they feel more at home than the other players and consequently give a better performance. This skill and experience is backed by good sportsmanship, the most important factor in the development of a good letterman. A good loser shaking the hand of a good winner is the mark of superior sportsmanship, common in the letterman. In the athletic program of Thomas Jefferson, great emphasis is placed on sportsmanship, ability, and skill in sports. The student who makes the team learns the fundamentals of fair play as well as the qualities of a good athlete. He learns to play his best; and then if he loses, he strives to be a good loser. Crowned by this good sportsmanship, the athletes at Thomas Jefferson thrill the fans with a display of ability and skill which is common in the lettermen of a football team. These factors form the mold for making a championship team, which in turn, leads to the end zone of success!

SHINBUSTERS PULL THROUGH

With a record of two wins, four losses, and two ties, the ardent varsity hockey team was led by Co-Captains Nicky Childrey and Molly Snead. Spirit was high as Nicky was placed on the first team in the Virginia Allied Hockey tournament. Barbara Wyatt, Belle Landrum, Sydney Knox, and Barbara Vitsky were placed on the second team. The Jay Vee team enjoyed a winning season of five wins and only two losses.

LADY NETTERS WORKED HARD

The girls' tennis team, possessing a good reputation, worked hard and achieved success. Numerous practices were held, during which the coach, Miss Edith Todd, taught the girls to observe those unwritten rules of tennis etiquette, and encouraged the team to improve their techniques. Each girl strived to attain the number one position on the team. Managing this year's team was Margaret Marks.

This year the girls' varsity basketball team boasted a winning season of seven wins and two losses. The team was led by Co-Captains Dale Ellis and Karen Megne, and Kay Hardy and June Johnston were managers. Karen and Peggy Rose were placed on the All-Prep Basketball Team, and Dale received honorable mention. Winning seven out of eight games, the Jay Vee team enjoyed a most successful year.

INJURIES, FLU TAKE TOLL . . . .

The Presidents, plagued by the flu, were unable to get off to a good start in the 1959 football season. After three straight losses, the Jeffs won their first game against Freeman. They then lost two more before winning a hard-fought game at Hopewell in the mud. This game was Nick Orsi's best game as the Belt-liners called on him constantly for valuable yardage. After playing to a scoreless tie with Thomas Dale, the Big Red lost to John Marshall, its crosstown rival. Although their record was poor, the Presidents had some of the best potential in the Central District. Halfback Nick Orsi played nearly all year with a bad ankle, and fullback John Capehart was bed-ridden much of the year with the flu. Standouts on offense were Orsi and end Bill Bailey. Defensive standouts were linebacker John Capehart, and linemen Billy Welsh, Bailey, Buddy Koch, David Call, Pat Taylor, James Barton, Bert Ruckel, and Bobby Andrews.

PAID OFF ON THE COURT

The Jeffs got off to a good start this year and went on to be one of the best teams in the state. The year was highlighted by the setting of the school's scoring record of 103 points. Lacking in height, the Presidents relied on their speed and accuracy to pull them through their tougher games. Veterans returning from last year's team were Bobby Duke, Tommy Walsh, Buddy Enck, Kenny Magill, Cecil Long, Nick Orsi, Gene Overton, and Ed Armstrong. After taking second place in the Metropolitan and Central District leagues, the Jeffs made it to the finals of the Central District Tournament, where they were beaten by Highland Springs, who later became state champions.

. . . . JEFF THINCLADS WERE TOUGH AGAIN

The Tee Jay track team again had a winning year. Although they lost such valuable runners as Charlie Cooke and Johnny Bogan, the Jeff's were able to stay on top by recruiting new men and by calling on several of last year's team. David Call was back to lead the weight squad by taking many firsts in the shot and discus. Buddy Koch remained as a runner, jumper, and a member of the weight squad. Also back were Jerry Bitts, who excelled in high jumping, broad jumping, and sprinting, and Billy Eubank, who was a great asset as a pole-vaulter. Probably the most thrilling event of the season was Bitts's record-breaking jump of 6'3" in the first meet of the year.

BOY NETTERS MAINTAINED GOOD RECORD . . . .

The Jeff tennis team again proved to be tough, even after getting off to a rocky start. The team, under the coaching of Sam Woods, tied its first match with Maury and then lost two matches before beating St. Christopher's 5 to 4. The first six men were O. H. Parrish, Martin Slavin, Billy Schutt, Mike Starr, Tommy Chewning, and Bobby Williams respectively. The toughest matches this year were with the William and Mary freshmen, Woodberry, Episcopal High, and the North Carolina freshmen. The fact that they played so many college teams was the reason the Jeffs were unable to build up a flawless record. Despite this, the team proved to be, as usual, very tough on opponents.

WALSH PULLS IN ANOTHER ONE

"Look at that lineman throw that block!" "He's playing a great game!" Such are the cheers of the tense crowd in the stands during an exciting football game. From the minute the spectators arrive at the stadium until the closing moments of the game, the fans contribute much to the moral support of the teams. In addition to cheering, the spectators indulge in various other activities during a game. Some discuss the probable outcome of the game, some tell of parties to be held after the game, and others visit friends in other parts of the stands. Our school life at Thomas Jefferson can be compared to the activities in the stands during a football game. Brief conversations in the halls, club meetings, campaigns, pep rallies, and assemblies were just a few of the many facets of our school life this year. The various dances, such as the Senior-Junior and the Sophomore Class Dance, were like cheers after a touchdown, for they contributed much to boosting excellent school life at Thomas Jefferson. Our school could not progress without its school life, for, while the football team needs cheers, Thomas Jefferson needs active students.

70,000 Minutes . . . . . .

. . . were spent in school during the school year! Of this time, 59,400 minutes were used in class and study. The day was divided into six 55-minute class periods and a 20-minute homeroom period for meetings and assemblies. Twenty-five to thirty minutes were allotted for lunch during which book covers and other S. P. sponsored articles were sold. Twenty-nine thousand eight hundred minutes were spent producing the Monticello and the Jeffersonian, excluding the hours spent after school. Life wasn't monotonous!

Spinning the Scope . . . . . .

. . . of entertainment, the school organizations put on assemblies, plays, and musicals, ranging from the light and humorous to the deep and thought-provoking. Enjoyment was available for all tastes. In the more modern vein, the Junior class presented Junior Stunt Night, built on a beatnick theme. For those who love music, the A Cappella Choir, with the assistance of the orchestra, performed "Carousel." In addition, the band and orchestra gave their annual spring concerts. Also in the spring, the Senior class contributed "Meet Me in St. Louis." Likewise, many of the clubs staged programs for their own entertainment. The climax of the year came when members of the Senior class participated in the senior awards assembly and the awe-inspiring Baccalaureate Service.

Special Moments . . . .

. . . that made high school memories were an integral part of school life. For the cadets there was Sponsors' Day, held in the fall and spring terms. Also bi-annual were their competitive drill and cadet graduation. College Day gave each student an opportunity to talk with a representative of the college of his choice. Miss Jeff, chosen at the Pep Rally before the game, was crowned at the T.J. vs. J.M. football game. For achievement in journalism, the Quill and Scroll honored students at the bi-annual installation, while the Sadie Hawkins Hop climaxed the successful American Field Service campaign, held to raise money for an exchange student. The yearbook staff celebrated the completion of their book at the Monticello banquet in the spring. Also, the well-planned interfaith program became an important highlight in our growth.

Sports Fans . . . .

. . . had a field day as the athletic department, with assembly line precision, produced one fine team after another. Football held the limelight in the fall, and, as the term progressed, the spotlight was turned onto our very successful basketball team. Not to be out-done, the girls' divisions though not as acclaimed, did their usual good job. Even the relatively new chess team did very well. Although the spring sports, golf and tennis, started too late for picture coverage in this section, we were able to get the beginnings of baseball and track. Congratulations are also in order for the fine support by the student body.

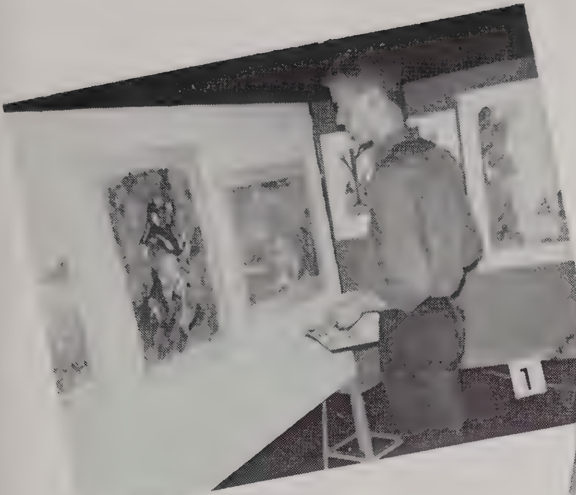
(4) King and Queen, Kay Hardy and Billy Welsh, dance away their short reign over the Senior-Junior.

The End . . . .

. . . of the school year drew nearer and those red-letter days became more frequent. Following the Jeffersonian subscription drive, a trophy was presented to one of the homerooms with one hundred per cent subscription. Then the Future Teachers of America celebrated its third anniversary with a birthday party, complete with a cake. Later in the spring the art department displayed its work one evening to the general public. Open house gave the science and physical education departments a chance to demonstrate the year's accomplishments too. Through such activities as these the school is able to interpret its program to its patrons. The Senior-Junior and the Senior picnic led swiftly to the biggest day of all—graduation.



Students Displayed Achievements...

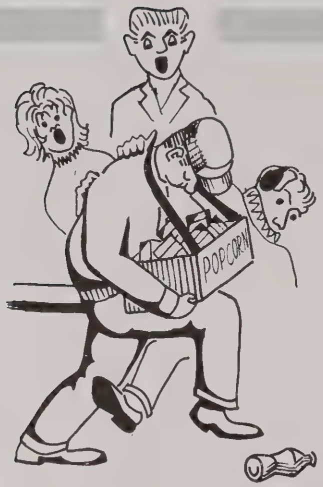
(1) "So this is art?" seems to be the question in Jimmie Thompson's mind at the art exhibit.

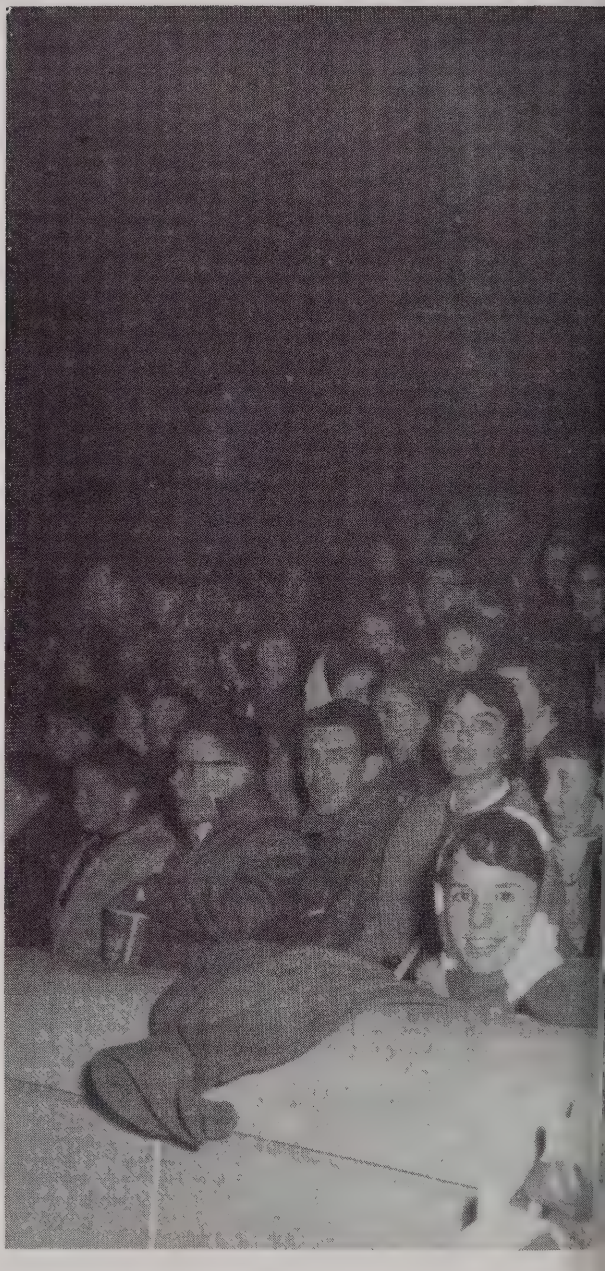
(2) Dick Fromm does a hand stand on the parallel bars.

(3) Phil Meisel demonstrates an elementary electrical experiment studied in General Science 2.

(4) June 9th, graduation brings an end to school life.

(5) The annual art exhibit drew the admiration and interest of students and parents alike.





"Here comes the hot dog man!" "Hey, give me a hot dog with mustard!" "Two drinks over here, please!" As the game progresses, these words become most familiar to the excited spectators in the stands. The vendors are always on hand when a fan needs a boost or needs his spirit replenished. Since energy is needed to produce active school spirit, the vendors play a most important role in strengthening the spirit of the spectators. A drink or a hot dog comes in handy as the game progresses, for fans can get tired while cheering their team to victory. The advertisers in our 1960 Monticello are not unlike those vendors in the stands at a football game. Financial strength, supplied by our advertisers, is a most necessary factor in producing a top-notch yearbook.

Not only do they supply financial aid, but they also help to promote better relations between business and our school. These vendors of the Monticello faithfully succeed in making the production of our yearbook a reality. And in turn, our student body strives to cooperate by our patronage to our advertisers, thus boosting the give-take relationship between customer and salesman.

We hope so. Because we have interesting jobs for "special" gals here at the telephone company.

If you're alert and like people, you'll like it here. The surroundings are pleasant, the pay is good right from the start—and you'll have lots of opportunity for advancement and raises.

There's a "special" extra, too. You'll have that wonderful feeling of making an important contribution to your community. Come talk to us about telephone work. We'd love to meet you!

Acknowledgments

Fifteen Rahs for . . . . . .

. . . THE FACULTY AND STUDENTS!

Your patience and enthusiasm have been a constant inspiration for us and for the Monticello.

. . . OUR PRINCIPAL!

Mr. Brock, your support and genuine interest in this Monticello have made possible greater ease in its production.

. . . OUR ADVISERS!

Miss Lowance, you devoted your time and energy not only to the production of the Monticello, but to the development of the integrity and character of each member of the staff. When everything seemed to be going amiss, you were always optimistic, giving us the courage to start anew. For these things and many more, we thank you.
Miss Gray, without your determination this book could not have been possible. Under your firm guidance the finances of the Monticello prospered.

. . . THE ARTISTS!

Susan Miller and Bob Dunville, we owe you a vote of thanks for your refreshingly original ideas for this, our 1960 Monticello. Bob's cartoons and Susan's cover and end sheet designs have made our book attractive.

. . . THE TYPISTS!

Congratulations on a job well done. You five have been dependable and conscientious workers from the first page to the end of the general index.

. . . OUR PHOTOGRAPHERS!

Dementi Studio, Lisman Studio, Richmond Newspapers, Inc., and our five student photographers have each done an exceptional job in helping us to show Thomas Jefferson's daily life. We especially appreciate Walter Covington's gift of a picture which he took and developed himself.

. . . OUR PUBLISHER!

Whittet & Shepperson and Mr. W. Stirling King, for your invaluable advice and competent printing and engraving we are indebted . . . for the beauty of the book depends in a large measure upon you.

. . . THE ADVERTISERS!

You, our Vendors, have made possible the production of the 1960 Monticello, and we are grateful for your help.
